This is a story of dogs and oceans, of cold memories of Polish winters and warm memories of life and art in Budapest before the war.

But it is also a story of changing Carmel, a community burgeoning with plenty of memories of its own, especially for those who can recall the salad years when anyone in town could name every one in town.

That changed, of course, but something else never has: Carmel's steady allure for the skilled, the talented and the artistic. They come here still and there is a certain sadness about not being able to know them all, not any more.

We submit, in partial remedy, this introduction to a latter-day Carmelite, her art and her family.

Zyta Laky, fast-working painter of dogs, horses and sometimes people, moved here two years ago from Santa Rosa "because we had so many friends here, and because it is so fine a place to live."

"We" includes her husband, Laszlo (Les) Laky, Carmel insurance representative; her son, Les, last year's Carmel High School gridiron star, senior class president and outstanding student who is now at Cal in Berkeley; her son, Mat, also outstanding student, junior class president of now, just-

School Board Meets With Bond Committee At H. S. Tonight

There will be an informal meeting of school board and citizens committee on the bond election in the high school library tonight at 7:00 o'clock to perfect campaign plans for the $800,000 school bond and 50 cent over-ride tax election on April 22.

School Superintendent Stuart Mitchell will go up Carmel Valley today with J. O. Handley to look over several pieces of land for purchase for future school sites if the over-ride tax carries in the election. Mr. Handley was appointed by the board to locate land that is suitable and available.

Membership Drive For Concert Assn. Closes On Saturday

This Saturday evening will mark the close of the twentieth annual membership drive for the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association, which holds all its concerts in the Pacific Grove High School.

The association guarantees to present four concerts for an adult membership fee of $6.00, $3.00 for students up through high school. In the past twenty years, the association has presented eighty concerts by world-famous artists. During the current season six concerts were offered; the last one, on April 16 will be Rudie's Sinfonietta, a dozen or more musicians, including violin, harp, soprano and baritone soloists.

No tickets are sold to individual concerts. Membership cards are transferable for concerts in Pacific Grove. However, members may attend at no extra cost concerts

Officials Hold Beach Safety Meeting Today

Because a soldier wrote a letter, Corum Jackson, chairman of the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross, has called a meeting at the chapter house at 3:30 today. Invited: Mayor John Chitwood, and the four other members of the Carmel City Council, Chief of Police Clyde Klaumann, Fire Chief Robert Smith, Barney Roberts, Red Cross ambulance liaison officer; Fort Ord Field Director Raymond Gilbreth, Phyllis Crockett, safety instructor of the Carmel Red Cross; William Wakefield and Fred Rainer of the Carmel Unified School District Recreation Department, and the soldier, Private Thomas J. Aaron.

The purpose of the meeting is to say "no" to the young man and explain why.

Private Aaron, a professional life guard before his entrance into the army, offers in a letter to the Carmel Red Cross to organize, train and direct the efforts of a group of volunteer guards to patrol the Carmel beach on week ends. "If the military authorities will let me and if this meets with the approval of the authorities of Carmel and has the safety chairman of the county chapter of the Red Cross interested in its support."

What the military authorities will say this afternoon to this sincere and generous offer is not known, but Red Cross Chairman Corum Jackson and Mayor John Chitwood will tell Private Aaron that the allure of Carmel Bay for swimmers and its very real danger constitute an old problem that has been thoroughly studied, again and again, and the answer has always been that even a much more elaborate safety program than Private Aaron has proposed would still not be effective; on the contrary, it would increase the danger, since the presence of life saving equipment and guards would encourage people to risk the bay under the illusion that if they got into trouble, they would be rescued. There are a number of conditions under which they could not be rescued.

There is a legal aspect which a succession of city attorneys have pointed out to the city council. If the city places life guards or life saving equipment on the beach, or allows individuals or organizations to do so, the city assumes responsibility for the safety of everyone who goes in swimming. Since no practical program could guarantee safety in the exceptionally hazardous waters off Carmel Beach, the city is not justified in taking on a responsibility it cannot fulfill. The companies that carry the city's insurance are equally emphatic.

What can be done? The beach is already posted with warning signs. The military installations put off bounds for their personnel early during World War II. Councilman Everett May, who is commissioner of health and safety, will ask the county to post the end of the beach that is outside the city limits.

Miss Dorothy F. James, Executive Secretary of the Carmel Chapter of the Red Cross, has extracted a list of rules for skin divers from a Red Cross report and the local chapter will provide mimeographed copies of them to be distributed

MPVS Gives $2,250 To Pay Mortgage On Town House

A gift of $2,250 to pay off the funded indebtedness of the Town House, Carmel Foundation's headquarters, was voted by the Monterey Volunteer Services' membership at an unusually large meeting last Friday. This is the largest contribution ever made by this organization to a Peninsula charity except for the proceeds from one of the special events given each year for a selected philanthropy.

In the letter sent out to all members signed jointly by Mrs. Archer Allen, MPVS president, and Mrs. Fletcher Dutton, chairman of the budget committee, it was pointed out, "We believe that the Carmel Foundation's Town House is making a significant contribution to our community life, with its expanding services to our senior citizens, its help in their times of need, and its proved ability to secure for them a more effective and enjoyable life."

Studied and approved by the budget committee, and subsequently by the board of directors, the membership voted unanimously to make this contribution. In the same manner $150 was granted to the Monterey County Symphony Association, to assist in presenting the Young People's Symphony.

Mrs. Boyd Mewborn, thrift shop chairman, reported a net profit of $651 for the month of February. It is from the profits of this shop that such gifts as that to the Carmel Foundation are made possible.

Mrs. Byington Ford appealed for volunteers to help in teaching dancing to mentally retarded children

Musical Art Club To Present Concert By Josepha Heifetz

The Musical Art Club will present Josepha Heifetz, pianist and composer, in a concert Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock in Bendorfer Hall, 461 Tyler Street, Monterey.

Miss Heifetz, daughter of Jascha Heifetz, began playing piano at the age of six, interrupting that career to study composition with Darius Milhaud in 1945. She returned to the piano as her chief interest in 1954, studying with Alexander Libermann. She is now active in both fields.

Miss Heifetz's concert is the first of four programs planned by the Musical Art Club. Information on membership is available from Mrs. Walter Jennings, MA 4-4125.

Peninsula Community Hospital employees were elated this week, when the final report on their participation in the current drive for $2,000,000 to build a new hospital showed they had over-subscribed their quota. Pictured here is Miss Elizabeth Kynaston, head nurse and employee-drive chairman, posting the latest figures. The quota was $17,500, which was topped by $1,750 for a grand total of $19,250 contributed by 104 employees. Watching Miss Kynaston are Mrs. Dorothy Atwood (left) and Mrs. Katherine Kenney. The trio live in Carmel.

PADRES OPEN HOME BASEBALL SEASON TOMORROW

With the basketball uniforms stored away for another season, Carmel High athletes are turning their attention to the spring sports which get underway tomorrow afternoon when the San Lorenzo Cougars visit Carmel's new baseball diamond for a league game. This will be the first outing for the Padre horsehiders this season and the Cougars should be a good test for the Red and Gray swingers. Carmel has a good nucleus of baseball lettermen returning for action this season and could finish up close to the leaders if the pitching develops into varsity caliber. Varsity lettermen include Walt Helm, third-baseman; Andy Gray, second-baseman; Joe Mason, catcher; Tim O'Shea, pitcher and outfielder; Dale Dawson, Mal Burdis, and Neil Giarratana, outfielders. Up from last year's junior-varsity squad are Pete Osborne, shortstop; David Hansen, catcher; George Crispo, second-baseman; Robin Way, first-baseman; Ron Faia, shortstop; Cim Conway, Phil O'Shea, and Hal Gregerson, pitchers; Larry Dufur, Ron Hinchcliffe, and Mike O'Shea, outfielders. Transfer students new to baseball at Carmel High are Dare Conroy, pitcher and shortstop, and outfielders Gil Altamirano and Ted Balestreri.

Carmel's junior-varsity squad also opens the 1958 season this Friday, clashing with the San Lorenzo jayvees in a 4:00 o'clock game at Bardarson Field. Coach Dan Yurkovich has a 25-man squad working out in the junior-varsity and indications are that some good ones will develop from the freshman and sophomore classes.

TRACK, TENNIS, AND GOLF MEETS FOR CARMEL HIGH ATHLETES

This Saturday will be a busy day for Carmel High athletes as they engage in Coast Counties Athletic League competition in track, tennis, and golf. Coach Buzz Ratner's track squad travels to Monterey for a three-way meet with Hollister and host Monterey. Action in this gets underway at 1:30. The Padres have one of the most powerful track and field squads in the history of the school going through their paces in preparation for the opening meet and figure to pack too much swift and power for either Hollister or Monterey. Top performers on the well-balanced Carmel squad are Ted Smith, pole-vaulter and broad-jumper; Mike Baggett, middle-distance star; Alf Anderson, 440 and half-mile; Phil

White, Phil Durbrow, and Bob Forbes, pole-vaulters; Tom Collins, hurdler; Russ Wise, high-jumper; Pete Hansen, miler; Pat Harney and Dave Vincent, weights; and Art Wilkerson, miler.

Coach Ray Gere's tennis squad plays Monterey on the Monterey courts at 10:00 o'clock Saturday morning. Two returning lettermen, Jim Lee and Pete Hansen, return for more net action this season and will receive help from Curt Zacherly, Dennis Van Dam, and Chris Kinard.

Coach John Westover's golf squad is anchored by lettermen Bob Goldwater, John Morse, and Mike Miller. The divot diggers have already seen league action this season, winning from the Salinas swingers last Saturday at the Salinas course. This Saturday Carmel's competition will be furnished by Gilroy and Watsonville at the Watsonville course.

Carmel's swimming program has been at a standstill due to a leak in the bottom of the racing pool. Contractors are starting work on the pool this week and it should be ready for practice by March 20.

MONTEREY EDGES GILROY TO WIN CARMEL HOOP TOURNAMENT

In a fitting climax to Carmel's 11th Annual Basketball Tournament, Monterey and Gilroy champions of the A and B leagues of the CCAL, fought it out in the finals and the Toreadores edged out a narrow 33-31 win over Bob Hagen's Mustangs. Strategy employed by Coach Ed Larsh of Monterey and Hagen for Gilroy dictated that the final tilt be a low scoring affair. Both squads went for a tight defensive battle and took only the good shots. At half-time the game was locked up at 15-13, but Monterey broke to a 5-point lead in the third period only to see the fighting Mustangs come back and close the gap to 31-29 late in the fourth period. Mike Maiorana and Mel Sory were the sparkplugs for the Monterey quintet while Dick Smith and Bob Bruton led the Gilroy unit. Smith was the game's top scorer with 14 points and was voted the Most Valuable Player award.

Coach Ron Bielicki's Junipero Cardinals clipped the Carmel Padres in the battle for third-place. Junipero broke in front, 12 to 9, in the first period and piled up additional points in each period to finish in front, 55 to 48. Led by the fine all-around play of Pete Bruno, the Cardinals put on a smooth workmanlike performance in their win over the Padres. Bill Hicks and Bill Wallace were the top scorers for the Padres, Hicks hitting for 15 markers and Wallace getting 12.

The Fremont Indians, 1957 tournament champions, put on a terrific scoring exhibition to thoroughly rout the Pacific Grove Breakers, 62 to 22, to win the consolation final. Led by Captain Regnart and Tom Ross, the Indians showed a well-coached unit which could have won all the chips with a few good breaks during the tournament.

Gilroy's Dick Smith was adjudged the outstanding player of the entire tournament on the strength of his highest scoring total, (61), his outstanding team play, and a stubborn brand of defense. Smith was also placed on the all-tournament team along with Pete Bruno, (Junipero), Mel Sory and Mike Maiorana (Monterey), and Bob Bruton (Gilroy). The new sportsmanship trophy presented by Laird Holt of the Continental Athletic Supply was won by Junipero's Pete Bruno.

All previous attendance records were shattered by this year's Carmel hoop festival as the SOR sign was hung out early during the three nights' play.

GARY WINS LIONS CONTEST

This week's meeting of the Lions Club heard as its guest speaker the youth who will represent the club in the annual Student Speakers Contest maintained by Lions Clubs of Northern California and Nevada. Guest speaker was Gary Bradburn of Carmel, son of Douglas Bradburn of Monterey and Mrs. John Ruster. The theme of his speech was Community Service, A Way of Life.

Bradburn will compete with representatives of other Lions Clubs in this area in the next round of the contest. He was coached for his appearance by Robert Wilson, Carmel High School instructor.

A guest at the Tuesday evening dinner meeting at Tom's Cafe in addition to Messrs Wilson and Bradburn was Col. Roy N. Hillyer, Jr., son of the late Col. Hillyer of Carmel, a former president of the Carmel Lions Club. Col. Hillyer plans to make his home here after his approaching retirement from the Air Force. Carl Vogel of Fostoria, Illinois, was also a guest.

Dear Wilma:

Despite the fact that our Pine Cone arrives here at our temporary exile so tightly rolled that it is virtually unreadable, we do our best and enjoy it in spite of the physical frustrations.

However, there was a remark in the issue of March 6 that I cannot let go unchallenged. In the article about the proposed repaving of Eighth St. you stated as follows:

"Several hundred residents in the vicinity use Eighth Street in apparent contentment. Why all this potholer over three complaints?"

Well, Wilma, doubtless I and my neighbors, of whom there are many, have been remiss in our civic duty as well as our self-interest by not making complaints heretofore. I, and others who live even farther away (I am at the corner of Seventh Ave. and Seventh Place, just inside the city limits) find the route down past the side of the Forest Theater and along Eighth a great convenience. I should think that the city fathers would encourage the use of Eighth to help relieve the congestion of Ocean Ave.

But to say that we use Eighth in "contentment" could not be farther from fact. We use it in resignation, and usually with imprecation and curse.

Do not misunderstand my strong feelings about Carmel. I am greatly appreciative of all that you have done and are doing to keep Carmel as it is. Personally, I wouldn't mind turning the calendar back at least 20 years, preferably more. But since practically all of Carmel is paved, and since Eighth is much more than just an access lane for the people who live on it, I do feel that some paving is in order.

Sincerely,

Edgar R. Bryant.

Dear Ed:

That's what we're afraid of, we who have been enjoying the quiet backwater of Eighty Acres, that the City Fathers will encourage the use of Eighth Street to take some of the pressure off Ocean Avenue. It's a selfish attitude, I suppose. On the other hand, Ocean Avenue is a business street, and Eighth Street is residential. Also, the town is full of new people who will race down any well surfaced street. They do not seem to realize that our side-walkless streets should not be raced down because of the need of the pedestrians to use the street for walking.

I know two people who have driven over and ridden over the worst block of Eighth Street twice a day for fourteen years in "contentment," Cliff and I. We poke along and don't mind the pot holes. But fifty percent of those trips have been on the way to work and who's in a hurry to get to work!

Now I'm going down stairs to find out why the bindry crew has been rolling your Pine Cone so tightly. It's not necessary. I know. I used to roll 'em myself.

—Wilma.

WILLOX RE-ELECTED

Chairman of the Carmel Planning Commission George L. Willox this week was re-elected chairman of the Monterey County Planning Council. The group, an organization of representatives of all the county's planning commissions, re-named Mr. Willox to the post at the annual dinner Tuesday evening at the Casa Munras, Monterey.

Ruth McMenamin Opens Linen Shop On Monte Verde Street

Ruth McMenamin is the proprietor of Carmel's newest shop, The Linen Shop, which opens Saturday, on Monte Verde Street, just south of Ocean. Mrs. McMenamin's new shop brings to Carmel a luxury collection of imported table, bed and bath linens in the tradition of the finest hand work. Ireland, Belgium, France, Portugal and Spain are only some of the countries from which Ruth McMenamin will import men and women's handkerchiefs, table cloths and mats, and trousseau-level household linens, including blanket covers, sheets, pillow slips, bath and guest towels. Monogramming and hemstitching custom work also can be ordered.

Robert Kvenild has re-designed the premises occupied now by The Linen Shop. A color plan combining avocado green and black wrought iron has been chosen by Mrs. McMenamin to display her fine linens. A wall of mirror has been installed, and the little shop provides a provincial, metal-shielded fireplace, a beamed ceiling, and a staircase ascending to an upper storage-office level.

In her new venture Mrs. McMenamin will be assisted by her sister, Mrs. Phyllis Brown. The Linen Shop is located in what was the entrance to the former Normandy Restaurant, and is just beyond Robt. Kirk, Ltd. on Monte Verde Street.

Zyta Laky Paints Dogs, People and Chapel Windows

named representative to Boys' State from Carmel High; and her daughter, Ginger, 14, attractive and popular graduate-to-be of Sunset School this spring.

Polish-born Zyta invaded the world of art at the age of twelve, driven by the constant sight of a dozen bare, unpainted chapel windows and a girlhood passion for irises. ("They're magnificent—the only flowers that weep when they lose their beauty." Botanically, this probably has something to do with sap trickling from between the closing petals, but to Zyta, it's weeping.)

It seems she passed every day on her way to school a church window of clear glass, which obviously needed an artist's touch. She begged parents, teachers and the chapel's clergy to allow her to work on it a little, and finally, in desperation, they did. She splashed huge, ambitious irises, unweeping ones, all over the windows and everyone was impressed, Zyta recalls, especially the artist herself. As far as she knows, the iris blooms on those Polish chapel windows yet, in heady color.

Six years later, she was off to Buda to live with a beloved Hungarian aunt who was an established portrait artist there. Zyta worked in her aunt's studio and studied art at the academy and with the masters there.

She spoke no Hungarian and on her departure her family had asked only that she "please not marry a Hungarian or you'll never come back to Poland to live."

A brief time later, after what must have been some monumental lingual snafus, she had entered pictures in an exhibition without either registering or paying the entry fees of the gallery she chose, and had subsequently received mention of her work in some 28 European publications.

Besides which she had met and was being courted by a young Hungarian who spoke no Polish—and this after she had solemnly decided to remain single and become a painter because art and marriage are surely oil and water.

Zyta recalls the Budapest years tenderly. To talk with her about them is to see the sculptor friend all hands and feet and awkwardness who created beauty all around him, to see her talented, white-haired aunt who refused to leave her studio when there was work to be done or something to be watched from the wide window that looked on the Danube; and who eventually even lost her life by that window when she refused to hide in the basement for so annoying an interruption as a bombardment.

It was a colorful era in a colorful place, which could match easily and perhaps surpass similar art colonies in other times, other places.

Zyta married the Hungarian suitor. He worked at the American Legation and had been the first Hungarian YMCA secretary educated in the United States (Columbia University). In 1948 the pair fled to Austria with their three children.

Like so many, many others, Zyta and Les were able to bring with them to America "only memories." One especially favorite item from their Budapest household, Zyta's harmonium which had been her Hungarian grandfather's, she left in a small Hungarian village which had no organ for its church. As the townspeople prepared to trundle it off in a farm cart, Zyta urged them, "Please be careful. At my grandfather's house Franz Liszt himself played it many times."

The villagers couldn't hide their disappointment. "It's such an old one then?" they said.

During the Austrian stay, a London friend sent Zyta a box of paints and she resumed her career at a steady pace she has maintained to the present, selling and exhibiting often here and in Europe.

Life in America, especially in Carmel, agrees with her. Her English she describes as "fluently poor," but she apparently has no more problems of being misunderstood. She spends most late morning and early afternoon hours at her studio on San Carlos, joining her family in the evening at their cottage home, Casanova and Palou.

A realist, a pictorialist, Zyta has had success here with her portraits of pets, especially dogs, which she does with a loving hand, and with what she calls her "little oceans," the small Carmel-like seascapes always in demand by visitors.

But her forte is her accurate memory and her really memorable work may be such things as her nostalgic canvases showing teamsters and their drays straining frigidly through a long-ago blizzard in a Poland to which Zyta, as predicted, has never returned to live and paint.

Novaes Holds Audience Thoroughly Captivated

BY EBEN WHITLESEY

There is today such a wealth of pianistic talent available to the concert audience that mere technique, speed, precision and keyboard mastery are not enough to stir the listener. These, though they bespeak both talent and years of dedication and discipline, are taken for granted. So we go to concerts either for the opportunity to hear live performance of music we cherish, or to hear a particular personal interpretation of familiar music.

Mme Novaes returned to the local scene last Saturday for the last concert of the current Music Society season to thrill her audience with a fresh and individual interpretation of several well-known works. Siloti's transcription of the Bach organ prelude in G minor opened the program in a soft, reflective mood which was soon dispelled by a flash of Latin fire. This was not the sterile, disciplined reading of Bach dear to the hearts of some purists, but a flashing, vigorous and emotional style.

The Mozart Sonata in A major, K 331, was played with considerable restraint and a certain detachment that was very effective. There was plenty of color and a rather wistful air about it. Mme Novaes did not use the music as a vehicle for technical brilliance, though her speed and technique were remarkable.

None of the more familiar Schumann compositions could have been more appropriate to the gifts of this artist than Carnival. It is music full of motion, variety and color, but it is not so over-dressed as some of Schumann. The artist demonstrated her power and sharp attack, sometimes with an accent almost strident in its force. The various sketches which make up this music were delineated with spirit, but with a light and sometimes whimsical hand. There was flashing contrast and abrupt change of pace. The artist seemed to get the most out of the music, bringing it to life with a strongly contemporary feeling. Her style was dramatic, but not self-consciously so. Always one was conscious of a particularly strong feeling for the rhythmic values. After the intermission there were three Debussy selections, played without pause. These were Soiree Dans Grande, Les Collines d'Anacapri, and Minstrels. These were played with sensitive imagination, and seemed somehow more filled with life and present motion than Debussy often is. The fire and syncopation of certain parts were fully exploited.

In honor of the late Isidor Philipp, Mme Novaes played his Will of The Wisp, a fresh and charming bit of music. Chopin's exciting Scherzo in C Sharp Minor brought the program to a lusty close, and the audience to thunderous applause and foot-stamping. Its dramatic value was fully exploited, but not overplayed. The interpretation was free and turbulent. I have heard other women who had as delicate and controlled a pianissimo, but few if any who command such power and sheer force, when it is needed. This is probably more a matter of expert timing than of physical strength. Three short and lighthearted encores rewarded the prolonged applause of an audience thoroughly captivated.

Albert Moon Speaks On Divine Healing

God's law understood heals sin, sickness, and discord of every kind. Albert Clinton Moon of Chicago told an audience here March 10.

The glad message of divine Love's unlimited power and goodness is available to all, he declared. Through spiritual thinking and living more people than ever before, he said, are gaining true satisfaction, health, and harmony.

Mr. Moon spoke in the church edifice, Monte Verde St., near 6th Ave. under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Carmel on the subject Christian Science Reveals Divine Love in Action. A member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, he was introduced by John Gates, First Reader of the Carmel Church. The Scriptural revelation that God, divine Love, "ceaselessly loves and cares for all His children" has practical import for all mankind here and now, he emphasized.

"Jesus brought to humanity that spiritual impetus which inspires us to forsake false material bases of thought and action—to think and act as the spiritual children of God," the lecturer declared.

The Bible shows, he said, that Christ Jesus healed the sick and sinning, wholly through spiritual means, as the evidence of the truths he taught.

"The many wondrous things Jesus did and taught showed God to be a loving Father, infinitely merciful, having that limitless compassion which is tender enough to ease the burden of every weary pilgrim, but so just that He requires unswerving adherence to Principle," he declared.

To bring the healing activity of Love into daily experience, it is vital to attain a loving, spiritually correct sense of one's own true selfhood, Mr. Moon declared.

"One must acknowledge," he said, "the fact that now he is the son of God; now is he actually created in the likeness of God, divine Love; now has God made him free from sin and sickness. Proportionately as he does this, will he find himself manifesting health and purity."

Recognition of the spiritual fact concerning man will "not only make us loving but will bring enlightenment and healing to the unhappy individual who may seem to be unloving, unhappy, or ill, and aid him to realize his true selfhood as the loving, happy, and healthy child of God," he stated.

Turning to the application of the law of divine Love to business and other problems, the lecturer told how a student of Christian Science met a financial crisis during a period of business depression.

The man's spiritual understanding of God and man enabled him to rise above the concept of himself as a fearful mortal engulfed in debt and lack, he said. "His fear vanished, and the evidence of his changed thought immediately appeared as a most unlooked-for position," he added.

In closing, Mr. Moon called upon his audience to prove the power of divine Love in action. "Let us accept," he said, "divine Love's spiritual idea of health, and be well. Let us accept divine Love's spiritual idea of abundance; and have security. Let us accept divine Love's spiritual idea of man; then, shall we realize with Paul that we are here and now 'heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ' (Rom. 8:17)."

What is your Dollar worth?

According to the latest reports, your dollar is worth only a little more than 49 cents. That won't buy you much in the way of food, clothing or many of the other essentials of life.

But it will provide a great deal of water service—about 2000 gallons worth. That's a bargain you just can't beat these days.

Our dollar, also, is worth less than half its value of a few years ago.

When we purchase equipment or construct new facilities, we must pay more than double the price for the same value.

We are thankful that under these circumstances we are able to supply water at our present low rates.

DEPENDABLE

Firmly he stands amid the wavering mist,
The pliant souls that ride the current gale,
Though skies above him darken or grow pale,
Or hide reality in amethyst
And shifting rose and pearl and subtle gray.
Veiled in mirages and chimeras, truth
Hidden alike from hoary age and youth,
Till firm-found logic seems so far away,
Still, unperturbed, he holds an ancient faith,
Unchanged by changeable philosophy,
That high ideals are not idle breath,
Nor character a baseless phantasy,
That love and faith are mightier than death,
And brotherhood a life that shall not die.

—E. LEIGH MUDGE.

THE HOUR OF COW-DUST

The gate-pole swings oblique—
The cows with evening pace
Stray from the drying creek
In easeful silhouette
Against warm glowing space.

The sun is almost set;
The hour eternal, beautiful, unique—
The rising dust surrounds
In mist of gold
The ancient-faced procession.
Hindu, Egyptian, Greek,
In ceaseless rounds
Lost cultures spring alight.
Progress and retrogression
Wash their slow tides.
Here in this hour abides
The true and timeless grandeur of the old.

—DORA HAGEMEYER.

WIND-SONG

Oh restless leaves that wheel and sway
To sweeping rhythms of the day,
This Autumn wind which blows along
Remembers April in its song.

Teacher Scouting

A trio of Carmel school officials will go south next week on a "teacher scouting" expedition with the goal of recruiting 13 new instructors for the Carmel School District.

Warren Edwards, principal of Carmel High School; Stuart Mitchell, superintendent of schools, and Richard O'Connell, principal of River and Woods Schools, will leave March 18, and will spend the following day interviewing prospective teachers at the Teacher Replacement Bureau offices, University of California at Los Angeles.

On March 20, they will be on the Santa Barbara State College campus for the same purpose.

Although 13 teachers are needed in the district for the forthcoming term, only a few replacement contracts can now be offered for signatures, pending outcome of the Carmel school bond elections, Mr. Edwards said.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

Frances Archer, soprano, and Beverly Gile, contralto, with their international songs and ballads became the fifth event of the Monterey Peninsula Community Concert Association's 1957-58 Season. The art and fame of these clever entertainers has grown, since I heard them two or three years ago, as well as their research for folk music in many languages, which makes them today the foremost duo folk song artists of the concert world. Their distinct vocal accomplishment in handling the degrees and qualities of voice suited to the character of each song is in itself a unique accomplishment and something that most concert singers cannot achieve.

Whether singing in the harsher sounds of a gypsy or the purer bel canto of an Italian love song, they conveyed the right sense and atmosphere of each. Both are gifted with voices of flexible quality when harmonized with Beverly Gile's skillful handling of her guitar.

The large audience would not let them go without five or six numbers added to the full program of Elizabethan, Irish, Welsh, Gaelic, French, Yiddish, German, Italian, Hungarian, Finnish, Japanese, Hawaiian, Serreled, Mexican and ten American numbers.

Some of us missed a pure Scotch ditty, for the Border Ballad claimed by both England and Scotland was concerned with gypsies who were not Scots but nomad interlopers who finally established their own village of Yetholm in Roxburghshire with a queen whom once saw! However, variety was ample in voice and musicianship. We hope Frances Archer and Beverly Gile will come again.

Mrs. Clyde Dyke, president of the association, addressed the audience at intermission with her fine vitality and enthusiasm by which in her eighteen years as head of Community Concerts she has built up, with capable management, a substantial part of the music of the Peninsula.

At the Woman's Club, Sven and Anne Reher, duo artists on their second visit here, drew a good house that enjoyed what they termed "Home Music." Well known pieces of Mozart, Strauss, Schubert, Beethoven and other great musicians associated with musical Vienna were performed with piano, violin and voice, interspersed with stories bringing forth the Viennese background of their evolution.

Sven Reher plays viola with great beauty of tone, modulation and temperament that reach the listener with vital sincerity and expression, stirring up reminiscences of romantic and tuneful composition that are a relief to many strident sounds heard today. He and his gifted wife Anne (they had first met in Vienna) both talked and played.

As well as providing good piano work, Anne sang intermittently. Their whole performance was unusual and instructive. The great Blue Danube Waltz was not included but the one given had to be repeated, as well as Schubert's Guten Abend, in which the player drew forth particularly sympathetic tones from the viola's low string C. Proceeds were for the benefit of The Carmel Foundation, Girl Scouts and Youth Center.

Fragos And Frantz To Present Two Sunday Programs

Violinist Louis Fragos, New York-born concert artist, and pianist Roslyn Frantz, who in private life is Mrs. Gregory Millar, will present two programs on March 23 and March 30 at the Carmel Woman's Club.

The sofata programs, the first a Baroque collection and the second to include Schumann, Beethoven, Schubert and Mozart, will begin at 3:15 o'clock on the two Sunday afternoons.

Miss Frantz has appeared with the San Francisco, Portland and Monterey County Symphonies and with such conductors as Enrique Jorda, Arthur Fiedler and Werner Jensen. She was accompanist for Madame Lottie Lehman's master classes and has toured widely with other groups. She studied at Mills College with Igon Petri, and later with Alexander Lieberman and Georgie Sandor.

Mr. Fragos, who made his debut at the age of 11 with a Mendelssohn Violin Concerto at Carnegie Recital Hall, studied at Juilliard, was a pupil of Vera Fonaroff and a scholarship student at the David Mannes School. He was a member of the Mozart Orchestra and toured the country three times as a single artist under management of Willard Mathews. For the past five years he has been on the music staff of Robert Louis Stevenson School.

Reservations for either or both programs are available by writing P. O. Box 657, Pebble Beach, or calling FR 5-7539.

Yuba College Coach, Frank Van Deren, earns enough in 6 minutes to pay for 24 hours of gas and electricity

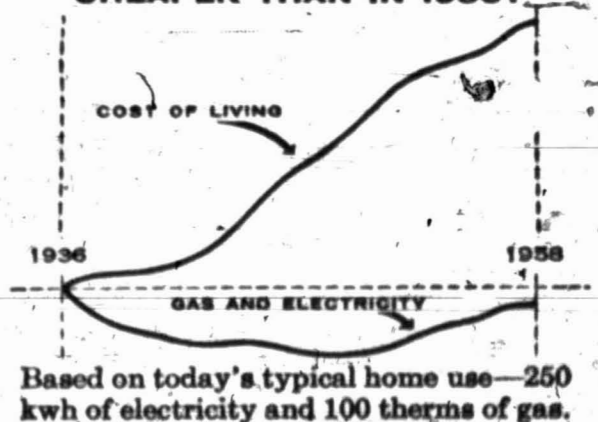

"With gas and electricity this cheap, we never think twice about using all we need. Good thing too, because my wife sure keeps our 26 appliances busy. She has to... raising three youngsters doesn't leave much time for doing housework the hard way."

The speaker, first California congressman in 15 years to hold membership on the Judiciary Committee of Congress, spoke also of what he called a "definite chance" for tax reduction in the coming year, and of the present recession, which he labeled a "normal readjustment."

In connection with the last-named topic he spoke of the current speed-up in federal building programs and of the awarding of a large government contract to San Francisco Bay Area shipbuilders, which will provide work for thousands in northern California.

Guests Of Timberses

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Howard Timbers this week from their Menlo Park home are Mr. and Mrs. Demarest Pope, whose wedding was a social item of last January 26. The bride, nee Carol Timbers, a daughter of the Carmel couple, before her marriage was a hostess for United Airlines, headquartered in Salt Lake City. When the Popes return to Menlo Park, following their two-week visit here, they will make preparations for moving to Sacramento early in April.

cause he feels "there are many issues of importance to the people of California that cannot be handled from Washington," was sponsored here by the Carmel Republican Women's Club and the Monterey-Pacific Grove Republican Women's Club. He listed water and education problems as two of the issues he feels need special attention.

He proposed a dynamic and forceful campaign for the Republican Party in the coming election. While he believes that the party would not fare well if the election were held now, he is confident the picture will change by election time if voters are made aware of the accomplishments of the present administration.

The congressman, who has visited Russia and several satellite countries, said he believes we "still maintain a lead" over the Communist world.

HARRIETT RIDER BACK
AFTER 8 MONTHS ILLNESS

Hosts of friends, customers and Carmel acquaintances this week welcomed Harriett Rider back to The Hour Glass, her shop on Sixth Avenue just off Dolores. Harriett (Mrs. Fremont Rider) has been putting up a most valiant fight against an eight-month siege of illness, including surgery, and several sessions of hospitalization. In her absence her husband and staff continued the operation of The Hour Glass. Harriett recuperated, in part, at her new Pebble Beach home, using gardening and sunning as therapy.

The Hour Glass, known to virtually all Carmelites and to thousands of visitors, has been a Carmel institution for more than a decade. Harriett was its founder, and with her husband has greatly expanded the operation, increased lines of women's foundation apparel stocked, and supervised extensive remodeling, resulting in the present shop.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The healing and saving power of faith, when it is advanced to spiritual understanding, will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon on "Substance" will include the following from James (2:14): "What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works?"

Among the correlative passages to be read from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy is the following (323:13-18): "In order to apprehend more, we must put into practice what we already know. We must recollect that Truth is demonstrable when understood, and that good is not understood until demonstrated. If faithful over a few things, we shall be made rulers over many; but the one unused talent decays and is lost."

Know. We must recollect that Truth is demonstrable when understood, and that good is not understood until demonstrated. If faithful over a few things, we shall be made rulers over many; but the one unused talent decays and is lost."

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

For several years this state has observed a week known as California Library Week. The idea has finally caught on with librarians and book people over the country and for the first time there is to be observed this year a National Library Week, March 16th through 22nd are the dates. This is not the first time that California libraries have been in the foreground with ideas which were later adopted elsewhere, but this is perhaps one of the more important times.

Governor Goodwin J. Knight has proclaimed this week of March 16 and 22 as National Library Week in California. He said, "I urge our people in California to reflect upon the contribution which our public and private libraries and librarians have made to the preservation of our great cultural heritage of human dignity and freedom."

The slogan for this National Library Week is Wake Up and Read. This library does not believe that the people around here need to be awakened to read. Thus far this year our circulation is about ten thousand books higher than it was for the same months last year, and last year was higher than the year before. With us, business is booming. Our only comment on the slogan is that perhaps another year it will be different and will give us something more apt to apply to our own community. We are happy that things are the way they are with us, and let slogans be applied where they will fit the need.

It is always surprising to a librarian that there are intelligent people in this country who do not buy books as well as borrow them from a public library. The other day a visitor to Carmel stopped in the library to ask if she might buy one of our plastic book covers. We explained that the covers were city property and could not be sold. She went on to say that three years ago she had bought two covers for her two books but that now she had another book and she certainly would like a plastic cover to protect it. Perhaps it is for just such people as our charming visitor that architects plan houses without bookshelves. Her entire library could be arranged tastefully on a coffee table. At first it seemed a good idea to label this our joke department but second thoughts suggested that perhaps it might better be called our sympathy - for - unrealized - tragedy department.

At any rate, now that we have called attention to it, please celebrate National Library Week by reading a lot and borrowing a more than usual number of books from your public library, which is us.

All the new books of next week are fiction. There are twenty of them, and the list will be posted on the bulletin board as usual. Happy National Library Week to you!

SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Four Carmel district elementary school administrators will be among several thousand participants in the annual conference of California Elementary School Administrators March 30 through April 2 in Fresno.

Wayne Greenfield of Tulare County School and Orville Rogers of Sunset are co-chairmen of a section on guidance and child study to be included in the conference program. Mr. Rogers is also president of the Monterey County group of the association.

William Mallek, also of Tulare County, and Richard O'Connell, principal of Woods and River Schools, will also be in Fresno for the meeting.

Officials Hold Beach Safety Meeting Today

ed by the sport shops which sell and rent undersea equipment. She is also sending the following letter to American Red Cross Chapters of the Coast and Central Counties:

The Carmel Chapter is asking the cooperation of the coast and central counties chapters to try to help cut down the number of drownings off the Carmel and adjacent beaches. A great percentage of persons using the beaches here are from your areas and it is expected that during the coming Easter holiday and summer season the visitors to the beaches and the skin divers will be greatly increased in numbers over previous years.

We are taking the following measures locally: supplying the skin diving clubs, the schools, the military and the recreation department with the attached mimeographed material and the dealers selling and renting skin diving equipment with both the mimeographed report and the safety suggestions excerpted therefrom.

"Unsafe for Swimming" is posted on the beaches and there are no life guards or life-saving equipment along this coast. The Commanding Officer of the Navy Facility recently stated that the Navy helicopters, often called upon to attempt to rescue swimmers and skin divers, were not here to stand by in readiness to go out for people who disregard signs warning that the surf is unsafe to swim in.

The Coast Guard informs us that no person in his right mind would say that any part of the ocean along this coast is "safe" for skin diving as the skill of divers differs greatly. Skin diving is growing in popularity and the Coast Guard is well aware of the hazards involved and has urged that safety information, such as contained in the attached report, be given wide circulation.

In the interest of saving lives we know that your chapter and particularly your Safety Services will cooperate to the greatest extent in calling to the attention of persons within their reach the fact that swimming is never safe and skin diving is not for the novice in the cold surf, and tricky currents along our rocky coast. Your assistance in circulating the warnings of danger and the safety precautions will be greatly appreciated by our community and may save the life of someone from yours.

Sincerely,
(Miss) Dorothy F. James
Executive Secretary.

HEARING SET FOR MARCH 20

A jury trial in Monterey Municipal Court has been set for March 20 at 9:30 o'clock for Richard Columbus Bridges, who was arrested by Carmel police last Friday on a charge of making deliveries in Carmel without a business license.
